Manuscripts in general should be organized in the following order: Title, Abstract, Introduction, Materials and Methods, Results and Discussion, Conclusion, Acknowledgements (optional) and References. These major headings should be typed in bold-capital letters and set in the center of the page.

TITLE

Title of paper consists of no more than 20 words. Abbreviations are not permitted in the title. Title is followed by the name of the authors and complete institution address. Abbreviations that appear in the abstract should be defined when they are first used. At the end of the abstract, list up to 5 (five) keywords in alphabetical order that best describe the nature of the research.

INTRODUCTION

The introduction should provide the readers with information necessary for understanding research presented in the paper. Previous work on the topic should be summarized and objective of the current research should be clearly stated.

MATERIALS AND METHODS

The section of materials and methods should include a discussion of the methods of statistical analysis, and specify equipment source. All modifications of the methods should be explained.

RESULTS AND DISCUSSION

Results and discussion sections may be combined, or they may appear in separate section. In case of being separated, the Results section should contain only the results of the current author’s study. There should be no literature comparisons. Those comparisons should appear in the Discussion section. The discussion should interpret the results clearly.

REFERENCES

All publications cited in the text should be presented in a list of references in chronological order. Use the following system for arranging the references:

- a. For periodical journals

- b. For proceedings of seminar, conference, symposia, etc.

- c. For thesis or dissertation

- d. For standard books

- e. For multi-author book

TABLES

On tables, no vertical line is used and each term should begin with a capital letter. Any important explanation to the understanding of the tables should be given as a footnote at the bottom of the table. All tables should be explained in the text. An example of constructing table:

Table 2. Body Weight, Feeding Level and Their Interactions on Water Intake, CP Intake, Energy Intake and Live Weight Gain of Indigenous Rams

<tr>

LWG = Live weight gain; M = maintenance; BW = body weight; FL = feeding levels; INT = interaction between body weight and level of feeding; = highly significant (P<0.01); *= significant (P<0.05); ns = non significant (P>0.05)

FIGURES

Figures should be drawn on white papers and lines should be less than 1 mm wide. The left vertical and bottom horizontal lines is used. All the figures should be numbered in consecutive order. Legends should be made outside of figure.

An example of constructing figure:

!Relative activity vs. Storage time

Figure 1. The storage stability of immobilized whey stored in 10 mM PB (pH 7.0) at 4°C for 4 weeks. The immobilized whey was achieved by circulating 100 ml of whey to 1.0 g of SP-FF and followed by washing to remove unbound LPO. The 100% of relative activity means the initial activity of immobilized whey right after immobilization process. The symbols represent immobilized whey (◊) and free enzyme (■). Data points are mean values based on triplicate determination. Error bars represent standard deviation of the mean.

TEXT CITATION RULE

In the body of the paper, refer to author as follows: Smith and Jones (2005). If the sentence structure requires the author’s name be include in parentheses, then the proper format (Smith and Jones, 2005; McDonald, 2007) is used. Use “et al.” following the first author when there are more than two authors but give all authors in the references. More than one article listed
